Robin is a seasoned attorney and a dynamic advocate for her clients. For over 20 years, the employment law firm she founded, Transition Strategies, LLC, has focused on representing the employee's best interests in workplace matters. Typical matters handled by Robin include negotiation of new employment agreements and severance agreements, developing effective stay and/or exit strategies, and handling claims involving wrongful termination, harassment, discrimination, retaliation, non-compete agreements, wage payment and overtime, family and medical leave, or breach of contract.

Robin provides a unique blend of sensitive career mentoring, no-nonsense legal advice, and deal-making finesse to employees transitioning from one position to the next. The strategies she recommends are balanced but effective, securing high-level deals for her clients. Robin's 15 years of experience as an in-house legal counsel in major organizations allows her to see each issue from both sides of the bargaining table. Executives from Fortune 100 companies like General Electric, Citigroup, Johnson & Johnson, Morgan Stanley, AT&T, Pfizer, and Lockheed Martin have all turned to Robin.

Ms. Bond's expertise evolved over years of working with varied and diverse constituencies. She began her career as an Air Force JAG where she prosecuted cases in Texas, and was a legal advisor to the Air Force Surgeon General's Staff. After returning to Pennsylvania with her family, Ms. Bond served as in-house counsel for two entities before she became the legal counsel for Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia. In this capacity, she developed extensive experience on medical staff law matters, credentialing, and physician contracting.

Robin measures her success by the number of people she can help each day to overcome workplace challenges. She has served as a legal commentator and workplace expert for "Court TV" and its live trial coverage. Her advice has been featured in various major media outlets including USA Today, the New York Times, the New York Post, the Wall Street Journal, Salon.com, and Monster.com.

Robin is the author of the book, "How to Negotiate a Killer Job Offer," for which Mark Cuban, of Shark Tank, wrote the foreword.
